OxygenToGo® is open for calls between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. Eastern Standard Time, Monday - Friday.

All passengers that anticipate using a portable oxygen concentrator (POC) onboard any Delta flight must follow this process and be cleared by OxygenToGo®.

1. Complete all fields and submit to OxygenToGo® a minimum of 48 hours (excluding weekends) prior to the scheduled flight departure of their first flight.
 - Fax or email a completed form to OxygenToGo® at 307-734-2982 or email: info@oxygenwego.com. A fax cover sheet is not required.
 - If OxygenToGo® has not contacted you within 24 hours, please call to verify receipt of fax.
2. OxygenToGo® will contact the passenger to review next steps.
3. Once approved, you must bring a copy of this form with you to the airport.

Approved POC: Only an FAA approved POC can be used onboard a Delta flight. "Carry-on only" POC's are not allowed to be used in-flight. No other oxygen sources are allowed on board Delta flights. You may use your own POC if it is one of the 26 approved units listed on Delta.com or if it has a manufacturer's label identifying your unit as FAA approved. See example:

The manufacturer of this POC has determined this device conforms to all applicable FAA acceptance criteria for POC carriage and use on board aircraft.

If your POC does not bear the required label, the device is allowed to be used on board if the manufacturer and model name are on the list of approved devices.

POC and/or Battery Rental: If renting a POC for oxygen on a Delta flight, you must complete a separate OxygenToGo® rental agreement. OxygenToGo® also rents most POC batteries via next-day courier if needed for passengers with their own equipment.
